

Jake Humphrey

Jake is the new anchor presenter of the BBC's Formula 1 coverage and the youngest ever presenter to host the hat-trick of BBC Sport programmes Football Focus, Match of the Day and Final Score.

Jake also presented the 2008 Olympics from Beijing, Euro 2008, co-hosted the BBC Sports Personality of the Year and took a trip to India for Sport Relief.

Before moving to BBC Sport, Jake enjoyed six extremely successful years at CBBC, presenting live links and a number of popular shows including Newsround, Fame Academy, Rule the School and The Saturday Show.

In between his busy filming schedule, Jake has pledged to support Keech Hospice Care in any way he can and carries his Ambassadorship with pride.

Jake says: "Keech Hospice Care works to make quality of life better for so many adults, children and their families day in day out. I'm delighted to be an Ambassador for a charity that does such wonderful work. I've visited the hospice, met some of those who spend time there and chatted to the staff about the incredible work they do. I will offer all my support to help Keech Hospice Care in any way I can."
