

Fundraise at your pub

If you're a publican or work in a pub, who not bring some fun to your establishment by raising funds for your local hospices?

Fundraising in your pub can be a great way to get to know your customers better and create a friendly atmosphere.

Will your punters Pledge a Pint to their local hospices?

Other ways you can help:

Collection boxes

One of the most simple and effective ways of raising continuous funds for us is to put out collection boxes on your bar areas.

The classic pub quiz

This is a popular and proven way to raise money for charity. Simply devise a quiz (or get one off the internet), advertise and enjoy an evening of trivia.

Darts or pool competition

Make it a prize competition and pull in the customers for a small donation to the hospice.

Karaoke or talent night

Ask for donations to enter and get the crowd to show their approval in pounds too.

Football tournament

Arrange a friendly with a rival pub to see who wins on the pitch and on the fundraising card.
